Full Account of the Fulton County Murders.

Horrible Outrages of Missouri Desperadoes.

The Fulton county raids and murders, says the Little Rock Gazette, have already been laid before the public, but there is an additional chapter and a moral. The original cause of the outrages seems to have been an old grudge, originating long before the war, between one Simpson Mason, a shoemaker, and a family of Martins. What the cause of difference was, or whether or not the cause was subsequently aggravated does not appear, and in fact is immaterial, since the first shedding of blood occurred in the spring of 1864, when a party of men, alleged to have been led by Mason took James Martin and his son from their home and deliberately shot them down. It is unpleasant to rake up old scores, but the reference is pertinent to the conclusion. A few days later Frank Martin was taken from his home at the head of Polk bayou, in Independence county, conducted about a half mile into the woods and shot down in the same manner. On the 11th of June, 1865, subsequent to the surrender, a party of twenty men led by Mason killed in a similar manner Sam. Pogue and John Hollingsworth. These two men were taken about one and a half miles into the woods and shot down. The four murdered men, who were residents of Fulton county, now lie buried together in the same churchyard. In September last Simpson Mason was himself shot down while passing along the road, by unknown parties. Soon after this the Sheriff of Fulton county made several arrests, and a desperado named Monks, from across the Missouri line—Fulton county joins Missouri—made his appearance so suddenly with a gang of men as to induce the belief of preconcerted action. Monks, under pretense of assisting the sheriff in the enforcement of the law, took possession of the prisoners, but released them on a writ of habeas corpus issued from the Circuit Court of that county, Judge Baxter presiding. One of these, Uriah B. Bush, fared unfortunately. He was delivered to Deputy Sheriff Turner after dark and shot down by a party of men in disguise, who are believed, on the strongest evidence, to have been a portion of Monks' band. Monks then retired across the Missouri border, too late for a posse of about 300 citizens, who gathered and offered their services as a posse, to reach him, if indeed the sheriff would have consented to avail himself of their services at all. It is believed, of course, that he would not, but a plausible excuse must suffice for a test of the question, and the sheriff is welcome to its benefit.

Thus matters rested until the 22d of November, when one Col. Dale suddenly made his appearance with about one hundred militia, gathered up in Fulton and adjacent counties, and a few days later he was joined by Monks, with a band of from ten to twenty-five Missourians. This force made its headquarters at Talbert's mill, in the northwestern portion of Fulton county, and after quieting apprehensions in some measure by treating the citizens fairly, they suddenly commenced a raid on the people of a character seldom if ever outdone in time of war. Squads of from ten to twenty or thirty, scouted the country far and near, taking horses, clothing, provisions of every sort, robbing, stealing and plundering generally. Necessity does not seem to have limited the unlawful acts of these desperate men. The waste caused will doubtless far exceed what was required, and the terrorism spread far and near, resulting in a great portion of the citizens leaving their homes and neglecting their crops and business. On the 13th, we learn from private communications they were still there. Thus for nearly a month, an hundred and thirty or forty men, as we are informed, half fed and half clad, have supplied their wants in the way of food, clothing and horses, and have plundered and robbed indiscriminately to satisfy cupidity and private revenge.

There is no excuse or palliation for these acts. We do not need Missouri border-ruffians to assist in maintaining the peace, even if they came by authority, and the sudden and unofficial manner in which the militia made its appearance is inexcusable even if good was intended by it. When acts like these are to end, none can tell. Thus far, the sufferers in this revengeful work of blood and carnage have been "rebels," with the single exception of Simpson Mason, who claimed to be a union man, and who committed his bloody acts under that cloak. The dead, and the past, should rest in peace, but for their inseparable connection with the present. We shall be glad to see this wanton retaliation cease and justice meted out to the offending.

AN AMERICAN BELLE.

What She is in Contrast with the Meternich.

The Herald's Paris correspondent adds: As I ever record the names of every rising star in the fashionable world, I may not forget that of Mme. Moulton, who was the heroine of Compeigne a week ago. She is an American and gifted by nature with a lovely "physique," as the Parisians say, and a splendid voice. Mme. de Metternich and herself have got up a musical olla podrida, which is called Moulton-Compeigne. The American belle does all the singing and the Ambassadress of Austria all the accompaniment. It was heard for the first time on the night of the danse macabre. Mme. Moulton dresses with more elegance than the French, or perhaps she carries off dress better than Parisian ladies do. She is brune, her hair is raven black, and she wears it in long, opulent curls. She is admirable in that pale gauze called "nymph's thigh," and, shrouded in white tulle, and when seated by the blonde Duchesse d' Albuquerque, who powders her hair and always looks vaporous, the two extremes of beauty in in a blonde and a brune are enough to make a man wish it were not illegal to have two wives, one of each sort.

REVIVALS.

Spurgeon on Converting Children

The Pall Mall Gazette protests against the "children's revivals" that have lately been held in Mr. Spurgeon's Tabernacle: "The motive is, of course, excellent; but the agency employed is simply shocking. A large number of children are brought together, their feelings are excited by fervid descriptions of the most sacred events, and then the announcement is put forth, 'Thousands of children converted.' It has been stated that at several of these meetings a hammer and nails and a crown of thorns were exhibited. A show of hands was also asked for from those 'who had found Jesus.' A correspondent of a cotemporary asserts that on one of these occasions only a few children held up their hands; the poor creatures probably did not understand what the 'revivalist' meant. He then put the question in another form: 'If dear Mr. Newman Hall were to invite all of you to tea who had found Jesus this week, how many would there be? Hold up your hands. Instantly, adds the writer, 'some three or four hundred hands were hoisted in the air, so rapid was the process of conversion.' All this was very scandalous, and Mr. Spurgeon, who is a kind-hearted and sensible man, ought to put a stop to it. Some doctor has warned the promoters of the meetings that the excitement must be attended with much danger to the children. But it does not need this suggestion to condemn proceedings manifestly cruel in their effects upon children's minds."

GEORGIA.

Particulars of the Late Negro Outrages.

From the Savannah News, 30th.]

We published, on Thursday last, an account of the disorderly conduct of negroes on the Ogeechee plantations, and of their robbing and shooting at the watchmen on the plantations of Maj. J. M. Middleton and Capt. J. F. Tucker. Warrants charging some seventeen negroes with larceny and assault with intent to murder were issued by Justice Philip M. Russell, jr., and placed in the hands of Sheriff Dooner, who intended to execute them on Saturday last, but was delayed. Knowing the desperate character of many of these Ogeechee negroes, and feeling confident that they would desperately resist being taken by any civil posse, Sheriff Dooner concluded to call upon the military for aid. He, with other gentlemen, called upon Maj. Perkins, then commanding this post, and he was furnished with an affidavit, of which the following is a copy:

State of Georgia, Chatham County: Before me, Philip M. Russell, jr., a notary public and ex-officio justice of the peace, in and for said county and State, personally appeared James Dooner, Sheriff of said county, who being duly sworn, says that he has warrants for the arrest of seventeen persons of color, charged and accused on oath with the offenses of an assault with intent to murder, and larceny; that they are all country negroes, residing on plantations outside of the city, and that he feels himself totally powerless to execute said warrants without the aid of the military authorities, and asks a detachment of United States soldiers to the number of ten or twenty, to aid him in the discharge of his duty, and in the execution of laws.

[Signed] JAMES DOONER,
Sheriff Chatham County.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this 24th day of December, A. D 1868.
P. M. RUSSELL, JR.,
N. P. and ex-officio J. P. C. C., Ga.

Upon the receipt of this, Maj. Perkins felt authorized to act in the premises, and promised to furnish the men whenever the Sheriff might call for them. Subsequently, however, the promise was revoked, and the Sheriff informed that under the existing state of public affairs, no action could be taken by the military until every means and all energies of the civil authorities had been exhausted, and they proved powerless to act in the matter. This is the substance of the communications on the subject.

Thinking that perhaps it would be better to execute the warrants without show of force, as he could not have the assistance of the military, Sheriff Dooner determined to go to the Ogeechee, accompanied by two officers only, and by kindness and persuasion, endeavor to secure the enforcement of the laws. Accordingly he left by the Atlantic and Gulf Railroad train yesterday morning, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Mendel and special officer Julius Kauffman. They arrived at Station No. 1 at about twenty minutes to eight o'clock, where they found horses in readiness to convey them to their place of destination.

The officers went up the Ogeechee river to Hayward's plantation, about five and a half miles from the station, where Sheriff Dooner exhibited his warrants to the overseer, who brought in five of the persons named therein. To these men the warrants were read, the matter explained to them, and they were assured of good treatment if they would go quietly, and they were left with the overseer, under notice to be at the station in time to go to Savannah on the down train. The officers then went to the New Hope plantation, owned by Miss Elliott, to arrest other parties.

An old negro named Solomon Farley makes his headquarters at this place. He is President of a Union League, and always in some kind of mischief. Last year, when military investigating parties were sent to the Ogeechee, Solomon was frequently before them. He appears to be a great rascal. His name was upon one of the warrants, and the sheriff proceeded to arrest him. Farley was in the negro settlement, and when the sheriff read the warrant, he exhibited considerable reluctance about obeying it, but finally said he would go, but adding that he was not secured yet. Before going Solomon drew something upon a slip of paper and handed it to his wife, who started off up the canal upon receiving it. He also gave similar slips to other darkies, who followed the woman's example. These actions being observed by the officers, the sheriff ordered Solomon to stop doing so.

The officers, with Solomon in charge, then went off to the railroad station, where they arrived at half-past two in the afternoon. They partook of some lunch, and offered Solomon a share of their provisions as an evidence of their intention to treat him kindly. The negro put a sandwich in his pocket, and said he would remember the officers. While eating lunch the sheriff and his companions noticed a number of negroes up the road. Farley said they were the five who had been arrested and notified to be at the station. The number of negroes soon increased, and a colored boy said they were drilling. Farley said, "Hush up! they are not drilling," and waved his hat to the crowd.

In about fifteen minutes there was a great mob of the negroes in the road, armed with guns and other weapons. About two hundred, it was estimated, were present. Sheriff Dooner told Farley to go to the men and tell them that he had warrants for the arrest of Farley and others, and wanted to do his duty quietly, and without disturbance or injury to any one, and that he would treat the prisoners kindly. Farley went about thirty yards up the road, then returned and said that he did not know the men, and was afraid to go to them. He was again sent out, and, after going about the same distance, returned, and said that he had no control over the men, and he advised the officers to go back to Savannah as soon as possible. Some women passed by directly afterward, and Solomon sent them up to the crowd.

Perceiving that the crowd designed attacking them, and being almost powerless against so large a number, the officers left the station and started in the direction of Savannah. The crowd of negroes followed, yelling like a pack of demons. About two hundred yards from the station the officers took refuge in a house belonging to Mr. Willis. When the mob came up the negroes on the place told where the Sheriff and deputies were, and the crowd at once surrounded the house. Sheriff Dooner favored barricading the doors and windows, and fighting as long as they could hold out, but yielded to the advice of the others, who thought that the negroes would fire the house in case such a course was pursued.

The negroes were armed with muskets, axes, clubs, etc. They were very excited, disorderly, and threatening. The Sheriff addressed them in a conciliatory manner, to which they replied that they didn't care for the Sheriff or anybody else. The three officers had come out of the house at this time, and they were immediately surrounded by the negroes, who demanded their arms and warrants. They leveled muskets and pistols at the time, and, seizing them, took their arms, the warrants, money, and whatever else of value they had about them.

A small pistol, which Sheriff Dooner had in a side pocket of his coat, was overlooked, and was the only thing not stolen. The negroes then went off in the direction of Station No. 1. A boy came to the officers and advised them to leave as quickly as possible, and they started along the railroad toward Savannah, traveling as fast as they were able. About five miles from the station the down freight overtook them, stopped and took the party aboard.

The sheriff and his deputies arrived at home last evening completely exhausted, weary and footsore. They desire to return thanks to the conductor of the train for his kindness in stopping to take them on board. The next time the sheriff visits that country he should take with him a posse sufficient to clean out the whole gang of thieves and rascals which exists there.

HORRIBLE FATE.

A Georgian and His two Sisters Burned to Death.

From the Macon Telegraph, December 30 h.]

On Christmas night a house situated five miles from Appling Courthouse, the county site of Columbia county, Ga., and occupied by a Mr. Gabriel Martin and two grown sisters, was burned to the ground and its three occupants consumed in the flames. The neighbors arrived too late to save the bodies from the fire, but it is generally believed that the house was first entered by negroes, the three persons murdered, and the premises set on fire to destroy all evidences of the crime. Mr. Martin was supposed to have a good deal of money concealed on the place, and this furnishes the true key to the whole transaction. It is scarcely probable that three grown persons would sleep so soundly as to be burned alive in the house without a single one escaping.

SUICIDE.

A Mania for Suicide in Italy.

Florence Correspondence New York Times.]

Suicide is much more common here than might be expected, among so careless a people. I do not know the percentage for all Italy, but it must be greater than with us. The pistol and the pool are more commonly resorted to than liquid poison and the fumes of charcoal. Love, loss of property, and domestic infelicity are the common causes; but life is taken for the most trivial reasons, and by very young persons. Here, in Florence, we have just had three cases in a single day. A girl of seventeen throws herself from the Ponte Vecchio, because she is discharged from domestic service, for some petty defection. The spectacle was a remarkable one. At least a thousand persons, mostly men, lined the quay and bridges, and with mute curiosity saw, for fifteen minutes, a human creature struggling in the water, and not a hand or foot was moved to save.

A bark, bearing a policeman, arrived very leisurely, and fished the body from the bottom, and then an unofficial physician pronounced life extinct, and another policeman, in due course, rendered the verdict.

Another case was that of a young man employed in the Government service, who blew out his brains in the Cascine, lately become rather a favorite place for suicides. He had written a dozen letters, eaten a meal at a trattoria near by, taken off a part of his clothes and folded them in newspapers, so that they might not be soiled with his blood, and inclosed a note requesting that these and the pistol might be given to the woman with whom he had been lodged.

The reason given for his self-taking-off was that he had not been sufficiently affectionate and grateful to his parents. Thus one sees what are some of the motives for Italian suicide.

RIDING ON A LADDER.

A Brutal Old-fashioned Welsh Custom.

"An old fashioned Welsh custom" has just been revived in the little village of Waenfawr, North Wales. A man named Williams, who had become separated from his wife, got married again, and with his second wife took up his residence at Waenfawr, at the house of her sister. This circumstance greatly shocked the neighbors; and after persecuting the second wife for a long time, in the hope of getting rid of her, they, a few evenings ago, got a ladder, freshly tarred, and assembling in force before the house where Mrs. Williams lodged, demanded that she should be given up to them, so that they might "carry her about the roads." Mrs. Roberts, her sister, went to the window and beseeched them to go away; but they declared that they would stay there a week if necessary, and that if Mrs. Williams did not shortly come out they would break in and carry her off. After a little further parley they began to carry out the latter portion of their threat, and after they had forced the lock of the front door, and broken several of the windows, Mr. Roberts, who was lying in bed dangerously ill, said Mrs Williams must go out. She gave herself up accordingly, and was placed upon the ladder in an upright position, with her legs apart, and thrust through two of the spaces between the rounds. The ladder was then hoisted upon the shoulders of two men, and from ten o'clock till midnight, when they brought her home half dead, the woman was "carried about the roads," her bearers being relieved by others in the crowd as they became tired. A policeman witnessed the proceedings, following the procession for two miles, but he dared not interfere. He, however, took down the names of ten men and two women whom he recognized in the crowd, and on being brought before the magistrates, they were convicted of assault, and fined 20s. each, including costs. A solicitor appeared on behalf of the defendants and pleaded, in extenuation of the offense, that it was "an old-fashioned way among neighbors, which had been prevalent in Wales in former years."

HOMICIDE.

On Monday last, Brig. Gen. N. B. McLaughlen, commanding U. S cavalry in this vicinity, went over to Winn parish, accompanied by an orderly sergeant only, to investigate the circumstances connected with the murder of Hal Frazier and another colored man, an account of which was given in our columns last week. While going along the road, in the vicinity of the murder, he accidentally met Wm. Kimball, one of the two brothers charged with the unprovoked murder of a colored man at Gunney's Ferry in 1866. On seeing General McLaughlen, Kimball fled and was pursued by the General, both being on horseback. After being pursued for a short time, Kimball was thrown from his horse while attempting to cross a creek bottom, or morass. He rose up immediately, and, protected by his horse, began to fire at Gen. McLaughlen, at the same time demanding his surrender. The General returned his shots, and after the third or fourth round, wounded Kimball in the face. Gen. McLaughlen escaped unhurt, but his horse was wounded in the neck. Kimball then cried out that he would surrender; but when Gen. McLaughlen approached him, he jumped on his horse and again took to flight. He was again pursued, and as he fled, fired again at his pursuer, but without effect. Gen. McLaughlen returned the fire and killed Kimball, who died instantly.

Young Kimball was in company with his father when first seen. The orderly sergeant was left with the father, and young Kimball was pursued by Gen. McLaughlen alone. Old Mr. Kimball was not molested, nor did he take any part in the resistance offered to the authority of the General, though we are informed that after the body of Kimball was brought home, his family and friends made some warlike demonstrations, which, however, did not result in any attack. Being alone, Gen. McLaughlen very prudently retired and returned to this parish.

These are the circumstances related to us. We do not vouch for their absolute accuracy, but they are believed to be in the main correct: As Gen. McLaughlen has been arrested and the matter will undergo a judicial investigation before Judge Oswald on Tuesday next, we forbear comment.

EPISCOPAL.

Acquittal of the Rev. Mr. Hubbard.

From the New York Sun, 31st.]

The ecclesiastical court of the Episcopal Church, which met in Providence, Rhode Island, some time ago, to try Rev. John P. Hubbard, on a charge of permitting a Baptist Minister to read the service and preach to his congregation, has just rendered a verdict of acquittal. One of the three clergymen composing the court dissents, but the other two unite in saying that Mr. Hubbard's conduct does not constitute a violation of the canon, though they seem from their published opinion, to think him morally guilty of not conforming to the spirit of his ordination vows, and intimate that under the recent amendment to the canon, he might be held liable to discipline for that offense.

This result of a case which has excited nearly as much attention as that of the Rev. Mr. Tyng is significant of a considerable difference, in tone and temper of mind, between the members of the court which tried Mr. Hubbard and that which tried Mr. Tyng. The former seem to have discussed the matter on broad and liberal principles, while the latter, though technically correct, were also sharp and severe, and not disposed to give the culprit the benefit of their doubts. The Providence clergymen may not be as good lawyers, but we think they have shown more wisdom than their New York brethren.

PARISIAN FASHIONS.

Gems—Jewels—Flowers—and Demi-Toilette.

A Parisian correspondent of the New York Times says:

Gems and jewels being so profusely worn, it has become an art to conceal their absence where ladies have not a dowry of diamonds and pearls to boast of. This is easy. A judicious selection from the treasures of Flora will ever charm and delight the tasteful. Flowers are worn very full, very large, and the gaudiest are in demand. They are set off with crystal powder, imitation gems, which is very bad taste, and, the brightest velvet poufs in the emerald, nacarat, ruby and autumn leaf shades. White, blonde, and satin, with brides' heads peeping out of the entanglement, are very much admired. The great novelty in tortoise shell is a spiral, through which the back strands are drawn. It twists in and out, keeping the flowing hair smooth, and is adopted by ladies who like the mermaid style, but have discovered that, however poetic, it is not quite agreeable to cavaliers to get every now and then, when the wind blows, a switch from said tails in their faces.

And now I will close with boquets for the hair, in order to prove that very much art can be substituted for precious stones. A garland of vervain mixed with green rushes, all shades; a wreath of currant shaded geranium, with velvet open green leaves and trails; a yellow water lily and closed bud, and crystalized verdure and trail, over which a swarm of golden flies; a large tea or China rose, with a beetle upon it, and a cordon of buds.

There is nothing new in demi-toilette with the exception of that very ugly red called antique or carmin. It is neither nacarat, nor claret, nor amaranthine; it is forbidding, and when cut according to the last style is most burlesque. The last style is a dress in five stories or stages, and begins at the bottom with a flounce for number one, then a skirt with a frill for number two, then a panier for number three, then a flounced pereline for number four, and then a frilled hood for number five. Much more elegant is the plain or glace poult, with a train, round which feathers or fur and the tight casque with tunic panier in one, looped in elegant folds and full behind, with or without those perverse folds from the neck, called abbe galant.

THE "SILENT" SPEAKS.

He is Opposed to any Addition of the Public Debt.

What He Thinks of Rebellious Southerners.

We condense from an account by a Radical correspondent what Gen. Grant recently had to say about the United States endorsing the levee bonds of Louisiana:

"General," said the Senator, "Judge —— wished to see you a few moments and consult with you in regard to the improvement of the levees of the Lower Mississippi. We wish the United States Government to endorse, and thus guarantee the bonds of the State of Louisiana for the restoration and improvement of the levees." "I hope the Government will not do it," the General replied with a quick, positive utterance that was not only decisive and final on that subject, but almost stunning. "I never knew a Government to become responsible for any amount that it did not ultimately have to pay. You now want the endorsement of the bonds. If that is given, you will soon want to legislate for the payment of the bonds. While we are discussing on all sides how the National debt is to be paid, I shall oppose any increase of the National obligations. I know all about the levees, I served in that country when a young man, and I had something to do myself with the breaking of those levees."

"But," said the Judge, "millions of acres of the best lands in the world are subject to overflow."

"Let them overflow, and let them stay under water," said Grant, "until their owners are willing that Northern men and Northern capital should come in and protect and improve them. Northern men with ample capital are ready to make a garden of your State, and you won't let them do it. Your large landholders are as hostile to the United States Government to-day as they ever have been; and if that Government should rebuild their levees it would not change them a particle. I know no way the Government could have adopted for rebuilding the levees but to have confiscated the lands of those engaged in the rebellion, and used the proceeds to restore the country. As that was not done, nothing remains but to set your negroes to work, and invite in and welcome Northern men."

"General," said the Judge, "the negroes won't work."

"Won't work," Grant quietly replied, "they'll work if you'll pay them for it."

"Am I not right?" he added. "Is there not such a hostility to Northern men that it amounts in most sections of the State to a practical exclusion of them from the agricultural interests of the country? Is there not an unwillingness to divide up the lands and sell in small parcels to those who might immigrate; and is there not a general tendency to secure the services of the negroes without prompt and adequate compensation?"

"I must say," said the Judge, "that there is more or less of truth in all these points."

"Then," said Grant, "I think you will have to build your own levees, or wait under water until you are willing men should come in who will build them."

"VERY LIKE A WHALE."

A Lady in the Wrong Bath.

From the N. O. Picayune.]

A newly married couple recently arrived in New Orleans. Jaded and tired, they would each have a bath before retiring. They found the baths in their hotel so situated that a lady and gentleman (especially when the lady is the gentleman's wife) can take their baths in adjoining apartments. But unfortunately for the happiness of our couple, baths at the same time were ordered to be prepared for other guests who had just arrived, and by the most natural mistake in the world, our bride got into the wrong bath.

It was in that moment of supreme enjoyment when the warm, genial water was coqueting with the beautiful form; when, like the maiden on the banks of Ganges, the bride was admiring the loveliness the water reflected, that the door was pushed gently open, and a tall, bearded masculine entered.

Of course the lady screamed—indeed did she. Such a succession of shrieks have rarely echoed through that building, numberless as may have been its experiences in screams.

"Oh, hush; for God's sake, be quiet; you'll alarm the city!"

"Oh, you dreadful man!" and the shrieks waxed more loud and piercing, and the angry little hands beat the water around her into a foaming cascade, like a miniature Niagara.

By this time the whole house was alarmed, and the patter of running feet were heard through all the corridors. The man couldn't go out, because he was not dressed; he could't remain, because it was immodest. The husband by this time was thundering at the door, and inquiring in accents far from calm, what the d—l was the matter.

"Help me!—help me!" screamed the bride.

The horrified husband heard in reply: "Wait till I get my clothes on, and I'll go!"

He could endure no more, but bursting open the door, rushed like a demon into the room, crying frantically for "Mary, Mary; my G-d, what's the matter?" But at the same time his eye lighted on the stranger, tugging madly in ineffectual efforts to resume his apparel. On him he seized, and with his fist raised, demanded the meaning of this intrusion.

It was afforded in a trembling voice, which disclosed his sense of the peril.

"The lady had got into the wrong bath; he was not aware of her presence until he undressed; he meant no offense. For mercy's sake let him out!"

The explanation proving satisfactory, the unfortunate stranger fled, and the bride was left to the consolations of her lord.

CANADA.

TORONTO, Jan. 4.—The Whalen case came up to-day before the Court of Errors on an appeal, and the Judges unanimously decided that a writ of errors was the proper course to bring the prisoner before the Court. Hon. J. H. Cameron then proceeded with his argument, alleging errors as to the challenge of Sparks and Hudgins. Messrs. Robinson and Anderson replied for the Crown. The prisoner was remanded until the 22d, when a decision will be given.

CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, January 4.—John McDevitt, on Christmas day, wrote to Phelan & Collender, of New York, surrendering the champion billiard cue, in order that it might be hereafter competed for with the "push shot" barred, and Phelan & Collender have returned the cue to McDevitt as the one most deserving of it, and he now challenges any one in the world to compete for the golden cue at $5000 a side, at the American game for 1500 or 2000 points on a second size four pocket standard size table with 2⅜ inch balls. The challenge to remain open for thirty days.

MEMPHIS APPEAL

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JAN. 6, 1869

AN able eulogy upon the late Judge HUMPHREYS, by Judge THOS. R. SMITH, has been unavoidably crowded over for to-morrow's edition.

TAX-PAYERS OPPOSED TO THE SALE OF THE LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD STOCK.

The following named gentlemen and firms, to be recognized as among the most solvent and successful in the city; who, by their present prosperity, have given earnest to this public of their ability to take care of their own affairs, in a petition against the unnecessary sale of the city's Little Rock railroad stock, said: "We think it unwise and bad policy for the city to part with her interest in this and other roads, and protest against any sale of the city's stock."

These gentlemen and firms may be assured of the support of the public in their prompt opposition to a scheme that will prove more productive of regrets (if allowed to be consummated) than the sale of the stock in the Charleston road—an error that has cost Memphis a voice in the dictation of the conduct and policy of that great corporation.

NICHOLSON PAVEMENT.

The question of the legal liability of lots and lot owners for the payment of the assessment, made by the city to pay for the Nicholson pavement, came before his honor, WM. M. SMITH, Judge of the Chancery Court, recently, upon a demurrer filed in the cause by the defendant. The Chancellor decided adverse to the lot owners and in favor of the contractors; in other words, he overruled the demurrer.

This decision is of great interest to the people of Memphis, establishing as it does the authority of the city, under the law, to contract for the improvement of the streets, and assess the lot owners per front foot for the same.

It will now be a question of interest to the people how to meet this assessment. The work is done; and, according to the decision the lot or lot owners will have to pay for it. The cheapest way, to our mind, to get rid of this burden (for burden it is), will be to pay the assessment by installments per month or quarter. The property liable for the tax is, in a great many cases, all that the owner possesses; it will, therefore, be hard for such to meet the pressing obligation, save by the adoption, with the permission of the contractors, of the plan above suggested. We think, in the interest of property-holders and contractors, that this, the least expensive, is the best way to adjust this matter, and we hope it will be adopted promptly.

FROM GRANT.

What purports to be the result of an interview with Gen. GRANT, by a Louisiana Judge, will be found on our first page. It will here, as it has elsewhere, attract attention. Emanating from so intolerant a Radical source as the St. Louis Democrat, it must be taken with many grains of allowance. What of it will most strike the Southern reader with astonishment is the admission of the Louisiana Judge that "there is (in the South) a GENERAL tendency to secure the services of the negroes without prompt and adequate compensation;" and an unwillingness on the part of land owners to divide up and sell their lands. How so unmitigated a falsehood could find utterance from Gen. GRANT and be tacitly consented to by a Louisiana Judge, passes our comprehension. If Gen. GRANT is, as we suppose, a constant reader of one of FORNEY's two journals, (the Washington Chronicle,) he will realize in its first column that lands in the South are being so freely offered for sale, and so freely sought for, that the Clerk of the Senate has opened a "land bureau" in connection with his newspaper office in Washington, and flatters himself that it will shortly pay better than the Chronicle and the Press together, with the perquisites of the Senate thrown in. The general content of the negroes throughout the South and the fact that, without the interference of the Freedman's Bureau, contracts on a liberal and equitable scale have been entered into by planters with their laborers, are patent to all down this way, and fully refute the slander that this virulent correspondent puts in the mouth of Gen. GRANT. It is impossible to believe that the President-elect, so noted for his reticence, would at once, and so abruptly give expression to the most Radical sentiments as to our people. He is a man of varied experience in life, and must know that, whatever the prejudices of the peple of the South, they are too shrewd and practical not to avail themselves of any honorable means of money-making that may offer. The "trading spirit," so characteristic of Americans generally, is not so quiescent in the South that her people will refuse a bargain simply for the reason that the money comes from a Yankee, a Mormon or an Alaskan. If we could believe such a speech as this possible from GRANT, we should despair of the peace which he has time and again, in his terse way, insisted it was his determination to restore.

THE PRESS.

Mayor LEFTWICH, last evening, committed the fatal blunder of attempting a sneer at the press, a blunder that may cost him as much in the future as his smooth speeches have won for him in the past. He is old enough, and ought to be wise enough, to know that he, and every other public man, lives by the press; and he should remember that there is no surer way of enlivening its "stale columns" (stale to him, perhaps, for want of very recent use) than by such ill requital for services rendered him not many weeks since, as is contained in the petulent words that opposition to a pet scheme begat. No man, however high his position, or however seemingly safe in his own esteem from public accountability, can long escape a press determined upon discovering his weaknesses, his follies or his faults. The press of the city in opposing this sale of the city's railroad bonds but consulted the public determination; and it was by their authority that the secret meetings of the Board of Aldermen, for that purpose, were fittingly and properly denounced as star-chamber proceedings.

WHAT HE BUYS.

The purchasers of the city's Little Rock Railroad stock will receive for the $100,000 which they propose to pay the city, a controlling portion of the following:

City Railroad (Little Rock) bonds	$ 650,000
Arkansas State aid	1,300,000
First Mortgage bonds, say	300,000
Debt due Railroad by United States	300,000
150,000 acres of land at $1 25	187,500
Making a total of	$2,737,500

But this is not all. We understand that the road from Little Rock to Fort Smith, and all the branches, with their accumulations of State and other appropriations of lands and money, will fall into their eager clutches if this bargain so enthusiastically championed by the Mayor is carried out. That's the milk in the cocoa nut.

CITIZENS' ASSOCIATION CALLED FOR.

In view of the recent frequent assaults upon the city's railroad stock, and the star-chambering proceedings of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen, it has been suggested, and the suggestion, we understand, meets with much favor, to organize a "Citizens' Association," similar to that of New York, whose chief business it will be to note all appropriations, sales, purchases, bargains and contracts of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen; closely investigate their origin and purpose, and report through the "stale columns" of the press to the people, who, we think, have a right to be apprised of and consulted before their property is secretly sold; as in the case of the Little Rock Railroad bonds, worth, principal and interest paid, at least $800,000. We hope that, with the defeat of this scheme to-day, all pressing emergency for such an organization will be dissipated. If, however, members of the Board will prove recreant to their trusts, and barter for a song what has cost their constituents so much of labor as well as money, then we hope such an association will be forthwith organized; that its first duty will be to investigate this transaction and hold up to merited scorn and contempt, any city officer found to have favored it.

WHAT ARE GOOD AND SUFFICIENT REASONS?

The Mayor in his Message, presented to the Board last evening, after announcing the sale of the city's stock in the Little Rock Railroad, (so far as he, the City Attorney and Chairman of the Finance Committee could make it), stated that this was done for two good and sufficient reasons:

First. Because the money it will bring is needed to pay debts that cannot from any other known source be provided for.

Second. Because the sale insures the completion of the road in one year, a desideratum not otherwise to be obtained.

First. With all our respect for His Honor we must say that these amount to just no resons at all. For if he and the Board will exercise the authority vested in them by the charter and ordinances, as well as State laws, and collect the delinquent taxes (amounting to $350,000) now past due by the parties to whom he alludes as "largely indebted to the city," our pressing debts can more than be provided for.

Second—As to the completion of the Little Rock Railroad, we fail to realize, and the public will fail to realize, why it is that so desirable an end can be most speedily accomplished by Memphis selling her stock in that enterprise. The arguments that were used to procure a subscription of stock from her in the inception of the undertaking are as pressing to-day as they were then. Again, this sale is not necessary, for the second reason assigned by the Mayor, inasmuch as the speedy completion of the road has already been guaranteed by the subscription of the State of Arkansas, amounting to $1,300,000; which, together with 150,000 acres of land, $300,000 due this road by the United States, and $300,000 of first mortgage bonds, is what, after all, is "in sight" for the contractors. We repeat, there is no necessity for the sale of this stock; and the people of Memphis will hold to a strict accountability (narrowly scanning the reasons for such action) all who vote for it. The interests, the true interests of Memphis imperatively demand that her stock in the Little Rock Railroad shall be retained; shall not, under any pretext, however sophistically presented, be parted with to any man, ring or combination.

FOREIGN.

PARIS, January 5.—La Patria says Russia urges the Conference to meet to prevent an expulsion of the Greeks from the Ottoman Empire. It intimates also that the Turkish representative will leave, if this point is urged, and warns Russia against another Crimean war.

CONSTANTINOPLE, January 5.—The case of the Greek steamer Erosis will be adjusted by a commission.

MADRID, January 5.—The Spanish Government has arrested and punished four of the insurgents who fired into a party of refugees while under the protection of the American flag.

LONDON, January 5.—Telegraphic reports have been received from Alexandria of an earthquake at Tobreze, a Persian city of 60,000 inhabitants. On Sunday last the shocks are said to have been most violent, but no lives were lost.

Dr. Livingston, the African explorer, is safe in the vicinity of Lake Nisszi.

FLORENCE, January 5.—The country is now perfectly tranquil. The recent disturbances, caused by the collection of the taxes on hops, were soon quieted.

MAINE.

AUGUSTA, January 5.—The Legislature of Maine will convene on Wednesday. The question of the United States Senatorship is attracting great attention. The candidates are Hon. T. M. Morrell and Hon. Hannibal Hamlin. The contest promises to be a hard one, but present indications point to the nomination of Mr. Hamlin.

CONGRESIONAL.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, January 5.—The Senate met at noon. A quorum was present. After organizing, Mr. Morton offered a joint resolution forbidding the landing of any submarine cable in any part of the territory of the United States, without the consent of Congress. Referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Ferry offered a resolution requesting the President to transmit a copy of his late amnesty proclamation, with a statement of the authority by which it was issued. He said that he offered the resolution because, although he favored the amnesty, he doubted the right of the President to grant it in this sweeping way, and he wished to have the question settled.

Mr. Howard said that he was very glad that the attention of the Senate had been called to the question, as it was important that the people of the United States should know it if the President had such a dispensing power as is implied in the issuing of the proclamation. He believed that the assumption of such a power by the Executive was entirely unwarranted by the Constitution.

Mr. Ferry said that he approved of the amnesty, but doubted if the authority existed for the President to extend it in that way, and so offered his resolution with a view of the prevention of the establishment of such a dangerous precedent. After considerable debate between Frelinghuysen and Conkling against it, and Davis and Doolittle in favor of it, it was adopted.

Mr. Stewart introduced a bill to enable the people of Georgia to form a State Government, republican in form. Referred to the Judiciary Committee. It provides for the repeal of so much of the act of June 5, 1868, as relates to Georgia, and making the Government of the State provisional only, and subject to the act March 2, 1867, and all officers elected under the proposed Constitution of the State who are disfranchised by the 14th amendment, or any of the acts before mentioned, except members of the Legislature, shall continue in office until the State shall be fully restored. It further provides that such members of the Convention elected under the laws of Congress to form a State Constitution, as are not disfranchished, and shall assemble on the first Monday in March next with full powers to alter or amend said Constitution, or in any manner not in conflict with the laws of Congress and the Constitution of said State as amended shall be submitted to the people at such time as the committee may appoint, and on the ratification or rejection of said amended Constitution, such persons and no others shall vote as may be described in said Constitution, provided no person shall be excluded from voting on account of race or color; and when said Constitution shall have been ratified by a majority of the votes it may be submitted for the consideration of Congress.

Mr. Wilson introduced a bill entitled "An act to provide a National Currency, secured by the pledge of public stocks, and to provide for the circulation and redemption thereof." Referred to the Committee on Finance.

Section one of the bill makes it unlawful for any bank organized under the said act to pay or receive interest on money in any form, on account of a deposit, by, with, or in account of any other bank, corporation or individual; provided, however, that the State, city or town treasurers may receive interest on their deposits in any bank or banks.

Section two prohibits any bank officers from certifying as good, any check, draft or note of issue, certificate of deposit, or other evidence of debt, unless at the time of such certificate or issue, the whole amount so certified is in the actual possession of said bank, payable on demand.

Section three provides that hereafter all deposits in behalf of the United States in any National Bank, shall be special deposits, and not to be used by said bank for loans or discounts, but held subject to draft by the Treasurer of the United States, or other disbursing officers, and such deposits shall not be subject to taxation.

Section fourth provides that the Comptroller of the currency may, at any time, call on any Banking Association for a statement of its affairs, on any past day, to be by him specified, and such report shall be made within five days of the requisition thereof, with a penalty of $100 for every day's delay of such report after the said five days, and an abstract of such report shall be published by the Comptroller in a newspaper in the city of Washington, and a report of each separate Association shall be published in a newspaper in the place where the Association is established, or in the nearest place thereto, and such publication to be at the expense of the Association making said report. Each Association is required to report to the Comptroller on the first Tuesday of each month the condition of the Association on the preceding day, said report to be made a report of the loans, specie deposited, and circulation.

Mr. Conklin introduced a bill to authorize the New York, New Foundland and London Telegraph Company to land one or more submarine cables upon the shores of the United States, and to maintain and work such cable or cables for the transmission of messages and intelligence between the United States and Europe, or any other international places, during the existence of said Company's charter. Referred to the Committee on Commerce.

After some further unimportant business the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

Washburne, of Illinois, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported the Consular and Diplomatic appropriation bill.

The Speaker laid before the House the special report of Commissioner Welles, of the Revenue Department. A resolution to print extra copies of it was referred to the Committee on Printing.

Mr. Butler presented a bill to secure and protect the freedom of transit in the United States. Referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Numerous resolutions of inquiry were passed and various bills referred.

Mr. Kelly reported a bill that a civilian may be appointed chief of the Bureau of Steam Engineering. Passed.

The House then resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, and took up the President's message of 1867. After some discussion the Committee rose and the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, January 5.—At noon to day the members of the Printers' Grant and Colfax Club, numbering about one hundred, called at the headquarters of the army for the purpose of presenting to Gen. Grant a congratulatory letter from their club, which had been engrossed on parchment and signed by all the members and neatly framed. Gen. Grant met them in the reception room at headquarters, and after a short speech from Chas. E. Lathrop, the foreman of the public printing office and President of the Club, the members were individually presented and shook hands with Grant, and at the conclusion of this formality he said:

"I thank you for this manifestation of your sentiments. I do not know of anything that I can say more than that, I am glad to have the support of all classes, and particularly of those who are finding employment under the Government. I hope there will be nothing in my course hereafter to make you regret the present you have seen fit to give me."

There was considerable excitement in the upper part of the city to-day in consequence of two negroes being found dead in their beds in the residence of the French Minister, a large crowd surrounding the house. Reports were current that they were either suffocated or poisoned.

Gen. Spinner still remains very unwell, and unable to be at his desk at the Treasury Department.

ALBANY.

ALBANY, N. Y., January 5.—The Legislature convened to-day and Gov. Hoffman delivered his message. It states that the State debt at the end of the fiscal year was $38,864,448, which the sinking funds, if not diminished, will at the present rate of application extinguish within nine years.

He says he thinks there is a manifest disposition on the part of Congress to control and regulate suffrage in all the States, which he deprecates as a step in the direction of centralization of power in the general Government unwarranted by the Constitution. He denounces the reconstruction measures of Congress, and concludes by saying that while upholding the principles of his party, he will support the Executive of the United States in every political effort for the common welfare of our common country.

STONEWALL FOR SALE.

OWING to the failing health of JAMES STEWART (who has been in charge of the premises as manager and partner for the last twenty-five years), STONEWALL, a farm embracing about 1250 acres of the choicest portion of the estate of the late DAVID CRAIGHEAD, situated in the bend of Island No. 34, Arkansas side, is now offered for sale.

There are on the place about 150 acres cleared, well fenced, and now in cotton and corn; one hundred acres in fine cypress timber, to which from the bank of the river is, in complete running order, a trainway, provided with railroad tracks, convenient for bringing lumber for shipment. The balance of the land is heavily timbered with oak, ash, walnut, cottonwood, etc. It is well leveed, and a large portion of the tract is entirely above the highest floods. There are also on the place comfortable houses, negro quarters, a gin and cotton press, barns, stables, a fine apple and a peach orchard, and everything in complete running order. Also, a number of reliable hands, who have been on the place for years, who may be employed by the purchaser. Also, mules, horses, stock hogs, oxen, etc., sufficient to work it, and valued at about $4000. These latter, it will be desirable to dispose of to the purchaser of the land.

CITY COUNCIL.

Regular Monthly Meeting of the Board.

Message of Mayor Leftwich—Reports of Officers.

Sale of the Little Rock Railroad Bonds.

Lively Debates—Adjournment to this Evening.

The Board of Mayor and Aldermen of the city of Memphis convened yesterday evening at 3 o'clock for the regular monthly meeting.

A quorum being announced, Judge Swayne took the chair, and after the reading of the proceedings of the preceding meeting by the Secretary, the Board proceeded to business.

The following message from his Honor Mayor Leftwich was then read:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, CITY HALL,
MEMPHIS, TENN., January 5, 1869.

To the Hon. Board of Aldermen:

We stand to-day on the confines of two corporate years, a fit occasion for such a retrospect as may guide us in the performance of duties that are to devolve on us in the year that is before us.

When we contrast the condition of the city, with what we desire it to be, the picture is gloomy enough; but when compared with what it has been, and what it might now be, the prospect is not discouraging, but on the contrary quite hopeful.

Some of you will remember when it cost more to convey a bale of cotton from the Memphis and Charleston railroad depot to the river than from the river bank to New Orleans; and when a carriage could not pass through the principal streets.

During the year seven and a half miles, or 177,403 yards, of Nicholson and stone pavement has been laid at a cost to the city and property owners of $931,469 62. In the same time 127 suits, to which the city was a party, have been litigated, 126 of which were gained by the city, and a large number settled and a further accumulation of cost thereby prevented. The navy yard property, which was held by the General Government as captured and abandoned property, and for the restoration of which an attorney fee of $40,000 had been offered, has been restored to the city without cost, and on such conditions as to warrant the hope that a reasonable rent will be paid by the Government for its use while so occupied. One year ago our city scrip was worth 33c. on the dollar; now it is worth 80c. City bonds with several due coupons attached, were then worth less than 30c.; now they are worth more than 50c. Then city employees were compelled to receive for their services a scrip variable in value, and often resulting in a loss they were poorly able to bear, while now though exigencies sometimes postpone their payment for a brief period, they are paid in money with such promptness that no necessity exists for selling their claims at a discount. Then we were paying interest at a rate of 24 per cent. per annum; now we are paying on an average less than half that amount.

All this has been accomplished during a year of unprecedented financial stringency and consequent depression of all branches of business, while the coming year promises to be one of unusual prosperity.

For these good results, being merely an executive officer, I can claim no credit for myself, but cheerfully accord to your vigilance and practical legislation the honor to which you are clearly entitled. It is, however, with feelings of gratitude and pride that I remember the liberal support my views have at all times received at your hands, and that no event has occurred to disrupt even for a moment the cordial and confidential relations that have existed between us, and while expressing my thanks for this support, and for the courtesy, promptness and efficiency that has characterized the conduct of all the city officers, I must be allowed especially to thank the "Finance Committee" for the sound judgment and indomitable energy that has time and again carried us through seemingly insurmountable obstacles.

We cannot be unmindful of our responsibility to those whose interests we represent, nor ungrateful for their valuable counsel, but during the performance of the most onerous duties, and investigations of the most intricate questions of policy, we have been favored with much gratuitous advice—often without a nice regard for taste—and sometimes ignorance has blindly impugned our motives. This advice coming mainly from those who have not manifested capacity to successfully conduct their own business, we have received at its value, and disregard the allusions to bad motives, knowing that the moral courage which dares to do right, regardless of such influences, will dispel the clouds of doubt thus raised, as the rising sun dissolves the morning vapor.

Turning from the past, we look to the future. Much as has been done, more remains to do. Owing to an under estimate of the amount of floating indebtedness, and an over estimate of the amount of this indebtedness that would be absorbed by tax-payers, the one million of bonds that were authorized to be issued, though realizing more than was expected, have been exhausted, leaving some pressing obligations still unpaid. The rigid economy that was practiced with such beneficial and encouraging results during the first few months of the past year has been too far departed from and ought to be promptly resumed. This departure was so gradual and insignificant in detail as to be almost imperceptible, while in the aggregate its effects on our resources is sorely felt.

The accompanying report by the Mayor, City Attorney, and Chairman of the Finance Committee, will show that in compliance with the instructions almost unanimously given by nearly a full Board in Executive session, we have sold the city's stock in the Little Rock Railroad. This was done for two good and sufficient reasons; first, because the money it will bring is needed to pay debts that cannot from any other known source be provided for; second, because the sale insures the completion of the road in one year, a desideratum not otherwise to be obtained. If a sale of the stock in the Mississippi and Tennessee Railroad would insure or hasten the building of the Mississippi Valley and Paducah Railroad, I would urge its sale also, in face of and fully comprehending the SEEMING opposition to the measure.

Our railroad stocks were not taken with any hope of receiving direct dividends therefrom, but for the sole purpose of securing desirable railroad communications and much as we hear and read of immense prospective dividends, no sensible man expects any, beyond such as enterprising business talent will gather from the new fields that will be opened to us by their completion. But beyond, and far above all this, corporations, no more than individuals, have the moral or legal right to hold and own stocks and other property that can be dispensed with while needy creditors are deprived of their just dues.

No better policy can be adopted in this emergency than to sell all we have, and thus, instead of "extending the debt and increasing the interest," we would, to the extent of its proceeds, "pay the debts and save the interest."

It is easy, and may be profitable for newspapers, whose columns have become stale for want of items to croak and complain, or even raise the sensational bugaboo of "Star Chamber proceedings," when, like prudent men, we meet for consultation without the presence of a reporter to chronicle all the phases of undeveloped plans or unmatured purposes. It is easy for parties largely indebted to the city, and bankers who are unwilling to assist us with loans, to join in well worded remonstrances against the sale of city property, but this does not relieve the wants of those to whom we are indebted, in many instances for day labor on the streets, but reminds us forcibly of how much easier it is to find fault than to suggest practical relief.

The most absurd and least to be regarded of all complaints are those of delinquent tax-payers, who failed to pay their taxes when scrip was worth thirty-three cents, because they thought it would be cheaper, and now murmur because the city credit has so improved as to raise it to eighty cents, while the most inconsistent idea is that the Board of Aldermen is inefficient in its legitimate sphere, and yet competent to control profitably large and varied railroad interests in addition.

In conclusion I would recommend, as a measure of economy and the abatement of almost a nuisance, that prompt provisions be made for cleaning and keeping clean the paved streets.

This, in my opinion, can be made cheaply done by contract, and if the value, as a fertilizer, of the deposit to be removed is duly appreciated, it will cost the city but little and still prove profitable to the contractors.

Yours very respectfully,
JOHN W. LEFTWICH, Mayor.

The following is the inclosure alluded to:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, CITY HALL,
MEMPHIS, January 4, 1869.

To the Honorable Board of Aldermen:

In accordance with your instructions, we have sold to W. B. Greenlaw the city's stock in the Memphis and Little Rock Railroad at twelve cents on the dollar, and a guarantee that the road will be completed by the 1st of January, 1870. The proceeds will amount to about $100,000, of which the City Treasurer will be provided with a sufficiency to meet the claims of all the city employees now due, and the remainder appropriated to the payment of the indebtedness of the First National Bank, on the terms of the original contract, to-wit: on the basis of city bonds at sixty-five cents on the dollar. Yours, respectfully, etc.,

JOHN W. LEFTWICH, Mayor,
R. J. MORGAN, City Attorney,
E. McDAVITT, Chairman F. C.

The Board then proceeded to the reports of city officers for December.

John H. Bowen, City Tax Collector, reports $78,531 38 collected during the month.

REPORTS OF STANDING COMMITTEES

being then in order, various chairmen of committees made their reports, which were duly disposed of.

REPORTS OF SPECIAL COMMITTEES.

Alderman Passmore presented a report recommending that the City Council petition the Legislature for a change in the charter of the city. [This was on a resolution of Alderman Johnson in regard to a petition of the merchants in regard to the Metropolitan Police, and the tax for the support of the same.]

The report was adopted, and a committee of three, viz: Messrs. Passmore, Holst and Brown, was appointed to prepare the petition.

The Soup House question again came before the Board, on the majority report (which was read by Alderman Passmore, who did not concur in the report) which was adverse.

Alderman Ruffin supported the soup question and wanted the $2000, which were voted, paid down. The soup to be furnished, he said, was "bully."

Alderman O'Donnell gave the soup, soup-house, soup bill, and soup charity fits, opposing the scheme in toto, as did Alderman Renner.

On a vote the report was concurred in by a vote of 11 to 6.

PETITIONS

Were next in order, and several unimportant ones were presented and granted or referred to the proper committee.

A petition signed by F. M. Cash and others to secure the passage of an ordinance relieving delinquent tax-payers from the 5 per cent. additional penalty tax, on the ground that the law authorizing it is ex post facto, unjust and onerous. Referred to the Finance Committee and the City Attorney.

A petition from R. D. Baugh for $300, to pay for extra labor, was allowed.

A petition from Capt. Geo. Cheek, of the ferryboat, praying that his boat be exempt from wharfage on condition of keeping the wharf at which the boat lands in good order, was referred to a special committee of three, consisting of Aldermen Cartwright, Moffat and Holst.

Alderman Passmore presented a petition signed by Jno. T. Stratton, Newton Ford & Co., and others of the very heaviest and most influential merchants and citizens of the city, protesting against the proposed sale of the city's stock in the Little Rock Railroad, and praying that it might not be done. He moved that the prayer of the petitioners be granted.

Moved by Alderman Johnson that it be referred to the Mayor and Finance Committee.

Alderman Ruffin opposed the reference of the matter. He wished to meet it fair and square then. He had prophesied this movement of Sam Tate's and West's when they first attempted to purchase the city's stock in the Louisville road. He foresaw that they would try to go through the city like a dose of salts; a dose of salts was nothing—they are going it like croton oil. He opposed the city's giving up a cent; on the contrary, he would advocate her taking $500,000 more stock in it. He showed its vast importance as a connecting link in the great Southern Pacific route, ridiculing the idea that the parties purchasing would furnish any guarantees to finish the road by 1870. What guarantees can they give? In 1870 they will come up with a whine about the troubles in Arkansas, the wet weather, the overflows, etc., and ask to be allowed until 1875. He reflected on the insolent and arrogant sneers of the Mayor's message about the newspapers, and said that the papers were right in informing the citizens about the doings of individuals in the Board. By a course of argument he showed that if there was money in this stock to private individuals, there was money in it to the city of Memphis, and it was, therefore, in accordance with her true financial policy to keep it. He proposed, if the city had to sell her stock to pay her debts, not to let one man or one set of men have the only chance to buy, but put it up at public auction and sell it to the highest bidder. Referring to the gentlemen who signed the petition just read by Alderman Passmore, he eulogized them as the very best and first men of our community. He asked, in conclusion, that as the property belonged to the people, and they had voted on the appropriation purchasing it, that they, the people, have an opportunity of voting upon its final disposition, and that the Mayor call an election on the question.

Alderman Renner opposed the reference, and asked the gentleman making the motion to withdraw it, and allow the petition to come up, so that the Board could take the dilemma by the horns.

To settle controversy for the time, Alderman Passmore withdrew the petition for the present.

RESOLUTIONS.

Somebody wanted a tax of fifteen per cent., to be levied on all taxable property, to create a sinking fund for some purpose. The resolution was laid on the table, unanimously, so quickly that the "resolver" did not have time to reclaim it.

Alderman Passmore then called up and commenced the discussion of that portion of the Mayor's message, and the inclosed document, relative to the sale of the city's bonds in the Little Rock Railroad; but owing to the lateness of the hour, and the retiring of several members from the Board, a further consideration was postponed until this evening at four o'clock.

THE COMMISSIONERSHIP.

A New Aspirant for Beaumont's Breeches.

Preaching and Praying.

So long a time has elapsed since our worthy Chief of Police, Col. Beaumont, was called by the Little Rock Railroad to take charge of its interests, and so much was said on the subject of his successor at the time, that the matter became stale and uninteresting, and for some time past we have had no rumors even as to whom or upon whom would fall the mantle of his office. Each of the candidates for the honor flourished a brief day, was the subject of a telegram or two from or to Nashville, and then fell into oblivion.

Yesterday, however, the city was startled by the announcement that the man and the hour had met. The new Beaumont had been found. A man whose plethoric legs, and well developed understandings would exactly fill the vacant breeches and shoes, had turned up at Knoxville. It was even whispered that he had already received the appointment, and would enter upon the duties immediately.

This news set everybody on a tiptoe of expectation as to who the new Fouche could be, and at last it leaked out that the news had come by telegraph to a high police official, from the private secretary of the Governor, and that the "coming man" was the Rev. W. H. PEARNE.

This individual, whom rumor thus makes our Chief of Police, is a scalawag parson, a hanger-on of Eaton's, the carpet-bag Superintendent of Public Education. It was but a day or two ago that we saw it announced that Brownlow had appointed him his successor as "Senior Editor" of the Knoxville Whig. These two last facts speak volumes as to his moral fitness for the position.

We understand that he has already made out a programme of "how the machine is to be run" as soon as he takes the ermine upon him. The first move will be to capture the Ironclad and kindred institutions, and ransom the inmates. The Varieties, Gayeties, steam man, and free lunch houses are next to be blackmailed, and if a sufficient sum is not paid, to be suppressed. The Police force are to be made attend prayers three times a day, and sing a psalm at roll call, morning and evening. The uniforms are to be changed from blue to black, with white chokers, and the hair of the officers and men of the force is to be cropped close. The following motto is to be placed over the desk in each stationhouse:

> "There's nary honest man on earth,
> And scarcely one in heaven."

A very stringent police code is to be adopted—the blue laws of Connecticut to form the basis. Due allowance will be made to Radical clergymen on sprees, and rooms at one of the many popular resorts spoken of above, will be retained for them by the month.

We suppose it was a "fellow feeling" that caused Brownlow to appoint Pearne, as he wished to take care of the cloth. Further particulars will be given when the facts transpire.

ARKANSAS.

The Conference at Marion.

The Objects of the Invaders Plainly Stated.

The Militia are Fortified.

The meeting called for yesterday afternoon, at Mound City, of the refugees from Arkansas, and their friends, was on maturer consideration dispensed with, and, instead, yesterday morning a joint committee of citizens of Memphis, Mississippi and Arkansas, with M. E. Cochran, Esq., as chairman, went over to Marion to confer with the militia forces.

We understand that the committee, to the number of nine, went hence to Mound City, where they found horses prepared for them, and thence they went to Marion under a flag of truce. Here they found the militia encamped and fortified around the jail. The fortifications extend from the lake to the public square, enclosing the jail, and are represented as quite formidable, at least to infantry without artillery. They consist of an earthwork about eight feet thick, and palisades, with ditch on the inside, running around the jail on three sides, the lake forming the rear defense. The jail is further fortified by a second line of redoubts which completely surround it, and makes it impregnable to any force without artillery.

The militia are in four companies, and when they first arrived did not number more than ninety, or at furthest, a hundred men, but have been recruited since they arrived up to about three hundred. They are of every age, from mere boys of twelve years of age up to decrepid old men, white and black indiscriminately, and are "uniformed" in every description of toggery.

The officers met the committee, and informed them that they were sent to the place for a specific purpose, when they accomplished which they would leave, and not till then. This specific purpose was the arrest of twelve citizens, four of whom they already had in jail. They had sent to Little Rock for 150 cavalry with which they intended to scour the country and catch the other eight. They refused to give the names of the parties or the crimes they are accused of.

They informed the Committee futher that two citizens had been furnished with a written parole, at the request of the citizens, who instructed them to go to those parties who are anticipating or agitating an attack upon the militia, and beg them to desist. Any attack would now be only "heaping coals of fire" upon the already totally prostrated and helpless community.

CHANCERY COURT.—Wm. M. Smith, Chancellor.—Yesterday's calendar of motions, pleas and demurrers was heard and disposed of. To-day the untried cases on the calendar published for last Monday will be called up for hearing, beginning with cause No. 512.

The Clerk and Master will take an account to-day in the case of Kennedy vs. Dupuy et al.

LAW COURT—H. S. Lee, Judge. Court met yesterday morning, pursuant to adjournment. It had been agreed upon between counsel and so determined by the Court, that the case of Manning & Co. vs. Wade should be tried on that day, but as it was ascertained that the case would probably occupy the attention of the Court for more than a week, and as the Court had announced an early adjournment, the attorneys agreed that the case should be continued over until next term. To-day the remaining motions on the motion docket, which were not heard and determined on Monday last, will be taken up. Thursday will be the last day of this term.

THE RUTTER CASE.

The Demurrer Overruled by Judge Hunter.

The Case Continued to To-day.

The Rutter habeas corpus case came up for hearing again on yesterday, before Judge Hunter, of the Criminal Court, upon the demurrer of the counsel for the defense to the return of the officer. After a lengthy and protracted argument of the various questions of law involved in the case, the demurrer was overruled, and the case continued for further hearing relative to the question of bail, until this morning. An application will then be made to admit Mr. Rutter to bail for his appearance before the Criminal Court of Nashville upon the first day of the next term. The capias under which the arrest of Mr. Rutter was made presents the singular anomaly of containing no less than four distinct and separate charges, each constituting an offense of different degree and each punishable in a separate and distinct manner. The Court, in consequence of this manifest defect in the capias, found it difficult to determine upon which of these several charges it would be proper to act upon in binding Mr. Rutter over, but finally determined upon the charge of embezzlement, regarding the others as mere surplusage and having no legal effect. Messrs. Brown & Griffin, Yerger & Sale, Judge L. V. Dixon, and Col. Geo. Gantt appeared for the defense. Judge Thos. R. Smith and Attorney-General Thorne for the prosecution.

JUST received, the latest style of Hoop Skirts at Rice & Engel's, 233 Main st. †

EPIPHANY.—To-day is Epiphany, or twelfth day—the old Christmas. It is called twelfth day as being that number of days after Christmas, and Epiphany from a Greek word signifying 'appearance.' It was first celebrated as a separate day from Christmas about 813, A. D., formerly being a part of the Christmas holiday. There will be worship in the Roman and Anglican churches to-day as on other holy days.

AMUSEMENTS.

NEW MEMPHIS.—A very fair house greeted the Lady of the Lake last night, at this, our par excellence, place of resort. Mr. Hamilton as "James Fitz James," Mr. Higgins as "Roderic Dhu," Mrs. Lanagan as "Ellen," and Mrs. Taylor as "Blanche," were all most excellent, and the house more than once showed their appreciation of each character. The play for this evening is The Streets of New York, for the benefit of Mr. Hamilton. We hope the house may be crowded, and that the benefit may be a rouser, for never did an actor merit more at the hands of a theater-going public than Mr. Hamilton. He is a gentleman in every sense of the word, and a most excellent actor—one whose modesty alone is all that prevents his being a "star."

THE GAYETIES.—This new institution bids fair soon to outstrip anything that has ever been attempted in our city before in the way of genuine variety entertainment. The management have selected a most admirable corps of artists and actors, and deserve the support of that portion of the public who love such a style of amusement. We shall take occasion to speak personally of the various ladies and gentlemen employed at an early date.

THE VARIETIES was, as usual, full of a laughter-loving crowd, who enjoyed the comicalities presented until their sides ached. Manager Broom has a good company, and is doing a good business in the line of "amusing the public."

THE STEAM MAN.—This humbug, worthy of Barnum in his palmiest days, drew quite a crowd of gulls yesterday—ourself among the number. "Live and learn" is an old motto—one well exemplified in this last Yankee humbug.

DISSOLUTION.—The firm of Flaherty & Walsh has been dissolved by mutual consent. The business will be conducted in future by Jas. Flaherty & Co., the senior member of which, Mr. Flaherty, has been a resident of this city for twenty years, and is as well known as any man upon the Bluff. To those needing their services we would say give them a call and we guarantee satisfaction.

FINANCE.

There is no change to report in money matters to-day. Rates of exchange remain steady, while the offerings and demand are both active.

City Bonds will no doubt be a leading feature in our market hereafter. They will be manipulated by rings—be cried down by some and up by others—all having some object in view. Be this as it may, the interest is being paid, and there are some who think that 12 per cent. well secured is a very fair interest for money, and those persons will no doubt be on the market to take all held by the timid as well as by those who are unable to hold. We note sales to-day of $10,000 at 48½c, and $10,000 at 49c, ex coupons.

City Scrip is quiet. We can learn of no demand. Dealers ask 78@80c, but refuse to buy, having all they want on hand. It is expected that the demand will again improve about the 20th inst.

County Warrants are steady. There are no offerings and dealers are not anxious to buy. We quote at 75@76c buying. Selling at 78@80c.

Gold opened in New York at 135⅛c and declined gradually, closing at 134¾c. Exchange higher, 9⅞@10⅜c. We note a sale of $1000 gold in this market by a dealer at 135c. Buying at 134@134½c.

Owing to the late hour at which the quarterly statement of the First National Bank was sent to us last night, we could not call the attention of our readers to it. The statement appeared this morning, and the Bank's deposits show a very flattering balance on the side of our citizens. Evidences of prosperity evinced in this way are tangible, and bid us hope for great things in the future.

The common custom of New York commission merchants, factors and bankers, having temporary charge of merchandise, to insure it in mutual companies, charging the whole premium to the owners, and retaining for themselves any scrip dividends which might be made by the insurance companies, has been stopped, and by a decision of the Supreme Court. A recent case, which was made the test, cleared the commission merchants $2800 in scrip dividends, and cost the owners $7000 for premium.

The foreign immigration returns of the past year show a falling off of thirty thousand in the arrivals at New York as compared with last year. So far as the Irish are concerned, the emigration to this country will be less hereafter than it has been in previous years, owing to the drying up of the source of supply in Ireland itself. The decrease of German emigration to America can be accounted for on the idea prevalent in Europe, that the demand for labor and the reward for labor here at this time are less than they have been in other years.

Acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue Harland has issued a supplemental regulation concerning the tax on distilled spirits. They are intended to secure correctness and uniformity in the monthly reports of business. It is provided, among other things, that having found the quantity of material used, they will then determine the quantity of spirits which should be accounted for from this quantity of material, and if they have no more definite means of determining this they will determine from the character of the material used, what quantity of spirits a bushel of such material should yield, and calculate the product to be accounted for, or the required production accordingly; the number of days upon which the per diem capacity tax is to be issued, while the number of days since the date of commencement in the month inclusive, less Sundays and days upon which operations have been legally suspended. The acting commissioner has also issued instructions as to the survey of distilleries, in which it is stated that, in estimating the number of dry inches to be allowed for fermentation, the assessor, and person designated to assist him, must, of course, be governed in a great measure by the depth of the fermenting tubs. From the best information received, it is believed that a fair allowance will be from three to seven dry inches for corn, and any admixture of corn and rye not exceeding one-half rye to one-half corn, and from seven to twelve dry inches for rye, and any mixture of rye exceeding one-half.

COTTON.

There was no opening dispatch from Liverpool to-day. At 1:20 p.m. the market was active with sales of 15,000 bales, Uplands 11½d, Orleans 11¾.

The New York market opened quiet but firm. At noon holders were asking an advance and buyers were cautious, asking for Low Middlings 27c, Middlings 27½c, Orleans 28c, Good Middlings 28½c. At 1 p.m. the demand was fair and prices firm; sales at 26½c for Low Middlings, 27½c for Uplands, 27¾c for Orleans, and 28½c for Good Middlings. At 1:30 p.m. the demand was fair and prices higher, Low Middlings 27c, Middlings 27½c, Orleans 28c, Good Middlings 28½c. At 1:50 p.m. the demand was fair and prices firm, and at 5 p.m. there was no change, Uplands 27½c. Sales, 2700 bales.

In New Orleans, at 11:30 a.m., holders were asking an advance, but buyers were cautious. At 2:15 p.m. the demand was active and prices were advanced ½c. Sales, 6000 bales. Middlings, 26c.

Our market has been excited and has steadily advanced since the opening with an active inquiry from both spinners and speculators. Holders towards the close hardly knew what to ask for their tables, and preferred to wait until to-morrow to ponder upon the matter. We give the following sales, and explain that the irregularity of prices is only the difference between sales early in the day and those made later.

TRADE.

Business was good to-day, and as soon as the roads improve we may expect a decided improvement in all branches of trade.

Of the Louisville hog market the Democrat says: The season of hog killing and pork packing around the falls has closed from the fact that the supply is exhausted. The packers from the opening to the close paid the highest prices for hogs for packing, and the receipts in consequence have been increased far beyond their expectations, under the impression that the "hog crop" was short, the supplies coming from Eastern and Southern Tennessee, and from districts in Kentucky that heretofore sent their stock to other marts. The supplies at other leading points, however, have been equal to last season, and the crop is likely to fully equal, if it does not exceed the last one. Prices last season opened low, and at the close the product commanded very high figures, which the stocks exhausted. This stimulated prices this season, which, with a rather unexpected good demand, has caused an early advance in the product, with, as some contend, very little margin left for a further enhancement of rates. The cost of the hogs the "raw material," this season has been fully thirty-three per cent. over and above that of last season, while, as the transactions this week indicate, prices now are not either actually or relatively as high as last year. The opening rates for good hogs for packing this season were 7@7½c gross, delivered here in the city on the 9th of November, with a steady advance to 9½@9¾c, live weight, and some extra lots at 9½c, the highest rate of the season. The opening rates of the previous year were 6½@7c gross, with a few sales during the season at 7½c. The total packing for the season was 167,933 head. Total in 1867-8, 140,980. Total 1866-7, 171,428.

During the week ending December 26th the Henderson, Ky., tobacco market was active and offerings light. Upwards of 1,300,000 pounds were sold in crops at prices ranging from $10 to $12 for good and lugs. Two crops of 50,000 pounds sold at $12 50 for good and lugs, besides some 75,000 pounds of inferior grades by the wagon load, from $6 to $10 round for good and lugs.

A recent Galveston (Texas) price current says:

The season is sufficiently advanced to enable us to determine approximately as to the amount of cotton and other produce to be received here of the present crop. The former estimates made public in this circular, placed the cotton crop at 150,000 to 160,000 bales, and we now have reason to believe that the side estimate will be nearer correct. The receipts of hides will probably reach 300,000, or an increase of 100,000 over last year. The receipts of tallow, so largely augmented by the beef packeries, will, it is estimated, quadruple last year. The receipts of mess beef the last three weeks are some 3116 barrels and tierces, and it is estimated that 1000 barrels per week will be sent forward through this city, during the business season, and last year hardly 2000 barrels were received during the entire season. The receipts of pecans are much heavier than last season, but have failed to come up to anticipations. The receipts of Texas corn have been something over 10,000 sacks, consumed in this city, and for several months we may expect the demand will be entirely supplied from the interior.

RIVER MATTERS.

WEATHER AND RIVERS.

The weather yesterday was beautiful and clear. It was hardly as warm as on the preceding day, and the sky had hardly a cloud upon its surface. The nights are pleasantly cool. The rise in the river during the past twenty-four hours amounted to 18 inches, and the bar in front of Hopefield will be out of sight this morning. Late reports from the Arkansas record the rise in that river as still going on. White river is bank full by this time, and Little Red is reported to be coming out in force.

Arrivals.

Steamer Continental, St. Louis.
" Norman, Evansville.
" Magenta, New Orleans.
" Guidon, Pine Bluff.
" Argosy, Arkansas river.

Departures.

Steamer Tempest, Louisville.
" Silver Moon, Cincinnati.
" Myrtle, Hale's Point.
" Natoma, Friar's Point.
" Des Arc, White river.
" St. Francis, St. Francis river.

In Port.

Guidon, Liberty, Norman, Argosy, R. P. Converse, Magenta.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Business was moderately active upon the levee yesterday. The up stream packets got fair trips of cotton, and the White river packet went out with a splendid trip.

The Commercial has been dropped down to the lower levee, and the Liberty will follow in day or two. They will lay up for the present.

Capt. Harrison Blasdell and Ed. Outlaw, clerk of the Ozark, were in the city yesterday. Ed. has left for a short visit to the Crescent City.

The Argosy attempted to tow the Ozark to this port, but owing to heavy drift in the Arkansas was unable to bring her further than Red Fork.

We regret to state that Capt. J. B. Davis is again unwell and confined to his room.

The Argosy leaves to-morrow for Little Rock and way points on the Arkansas. She is a good passenger packet. Capt. Tom Berry is master, and Mr. Morrison is her chief clerk.

The Norman lays over until to-day to keep some engagements. She leaves at 5 p.m. for Evansville and all way landings. Capt. Hewett commands, and Geo. W. Twoomey has charge of the office.

The splendid steamer Magenta, Capt. J. Frank Hicks, will get away at her regular hour to-day for the bends, Vicksburg, Natchez and New Orleans. To passengers she offers splendid fare, luxurious beds and excellent company. With but little freight to handle she will make a quick trip. John Sullivan and Mr. Green are her pursers, and Frank Smith is her incomparable steward.

The St. Francis got away on time.

The drift in the Arkansas is heavier than ever was known before. That stream rose 3½ feet on Friday night at Pine Bluff, and broke the wharfboat loose. It was caught by the Guidon and landed at some point below. When the Guidon came out the river was within about three feet of being out of its banks, and was still going up rapidly.

The Sam. Hale, Capt. Walker, leaves on Thursday for Cairo and Cincinnati.

The Dan Able, Capt. Gross, with Alex Waddell in the office, leaves to-morrow for New Orleans and all way landings.

Capt. Clay Rice will back out the Guidon to-day for Pine Bluff and all intermediate points. The Guidon will hereafter make weekly trips hence to Pine Bluff, and is a valuable acquisition to the trade, being safe, fast and well officered. Garrett Huls, who has her office in charge, is, like Dr. Clay, a popular officer.

Steamboats running to points in Arkansas now take exceptions on bills lading against robbery by armed militia. The same precautions are taken by boats landing at Osceola.

Eight men, including Mr. Reed, Indian agent at Fort Peck, Montana, while on their way down the Missouri river to the wreck of the steamer Amelia, four miles below Fort Peck, were attacked by three hundred Indians. Four men, named McGregor, Thomas, Steve and Saber, were instantly killed, and one man, named Solomon, severely wounded. The Indians cut off and carried away the dead McGregor and Steve, and also captured a train belonging to the party, loaded with provisions valued at $1000.

The Westmoreland, bound down, collided with the bank at or near Evansville, and had to discharge her cargo to keep from sinking. She goes on the ways.

The House committee of the Alabama Legislature have reported in favor of opening the Cahaba river to navigation.

WOLFE'S

Schiedam Schnapps.

It is now some twenty years since the proprietor first introduced it to the American public, and during that time he has received over three thousand letters from physicians, indorsing it as the purest liquor they have ever used in their practice.

It is made from barley of the finest quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, is flavored with the essence of the aromatic juniper-berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit every acrid particle.

As a means of preventing and correcting the disagreeable and often dangerous effect produced upon the stomach and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers, new settlers, and all unacclimated persons in the West, the South, and Southwest are peculiarly liable—the SCHIEDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS will be found absolutely infallible; while in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, stricture, dyspepsia and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession.

It is put up in quart and pint bottles, in cases, with the name of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac-simile of his signature on the label. For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants.

A Book for Every Citizen and Political Student,

DEMOCRACY IN THE UNITED STATES

What It Has Done, What It is Doing, and What It Will Do.

BY HON. RANSOM H. GILLET,

Formerly Member of Congress from St. Lawrence county, N. Y.; more recently Registrar and Solicitor of the United States Treasury Department, and Solicitor for the United States in the Court of Claims, Etc.

IN one elegant volume, large 12mo, of over 400 pages, bound in extra cloth, and containing splendid Portraits on steel of Jefferson, Jackson, Seymour and Blair, and including Biographical Sketches of the Democratic Nominees. Price, $2 00.

This admirable work contains a complete and spirited history of the Democratic party, from its origin down to the present time. It is a vast repository of political and historical facts of profound interest to every citizen, and of value to every politician for reference. No political text-book is so complete, so full of reliable information, or so interesting as this. No Democrat can afford to be without it, as it supplies him with every fact bearing upon the issues now before the public. The author's experience dates far back into the early portion of the century; he was an associate of Silas Wright, he enjoyed the confidence and friendship of Jackson, Van Buren, Polk, Taylor, Fillmore, Pierce and Buchanan, and, probably better than any man living, is acquainted with what the internal workings of parties have been for the last fifty years.

☞ Agents wanted to sell this book in every part of the Union. Clubs and Democratic organizations will be supplied at special rates.
